AMERICORPS VISTA MEMBER JOINS COMPUTERS4KIDS STAFF

Charlottesville, VA – Through a partnership with the Community Technology Centers’ Network VISTA Project, local nonprofit Computers4Kids is pleased to announce the expansion of its staff to include an Americorps VISTA member.

Recent University of Virginia graduate and Americorps VISTA member Davina Fournier is joining Computers4Kids’ staff for a one year term. Ms. Fournier will engage in program planning and implementation, as well as student and volunteer recruitment. Computers4Kids’ Executive Director Kala Somerville says, “Davina’s work will be particularly valuable in our efforts to increase the number, variety, and depth of technology skill-building workshops offered. We are anticipating many exciting and transformative learning experiences for our students!”

The Community Technology Center VISTA Project places Americorps VISTA volunteers with nonprofit organizations that use technology to address the needs of low-income and at-risk communities. VISTA volunteers work to build the capacity of their organization, and share resources with other VISTA volunteers working on similar efforts.

Computers4Kids is the region's only after-school technology mentoring program. Designed to give low-income youth the computer training and support they need to get ahead academically and professionally, Computers4Kids provides middle and high school youth with a state-of-the-art after-school computer lab, technology workshops, adult one-on-one mentoring, home computers, and a year of free internet access...all free of charge.
